

Three of the four co-authors are native English speakers. English language is widely used as a professional language in Malaysia, particularly in the medical profession.

The manuscript has been extensively revised to enhance the standard of English further.