

Answering to reviewers

We thank the journal and reviewers for providing thoughtful and thorough comments on our manuscript, " Self-efficacy for managing hypertension and comorbid conditions." Below is a point-by-point response to reviewer comments.

Reviewer 1

It could be considered the possibility of making simpler the treatment protocol according to the patients' conditions.

-> Thank you for your comment.

Reviewer 2

In the manuscript entitled "Self-Efficacy for Managing Hypertension and Comorbid Conditions", the authors investigated self-efficacy for managing chronic conditions in individuals with hypertension. The conclusion is insightful, and could be helpful in clinic study. However, abbreviations (such as line 147-MANOVA, line 150-ANOVAs,... etc) should be with its full name when it firstly appears in the paper.

-> We apologize for the confusion. We included full names of those abbreviations in the manuscript.
