

SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

I see no basic problems with the paper, other than the need for minor language polishing, some editing for grammar, etc. The manuscript fits as a reasonable clinical case report, informing about a disorder with poor prognosis and treatment options. The "minor revision" is essentially just careful editing of the text for readability.

Thank you very much for approving this article. I carefully revised it several times, corrected some grammatical mistakes, polished its words and sentences, and asked for advice. We sincerely hope to meet the requirements of publishing in your magazine and have the honor to be published.

Best wishes!

Dr. Ren-wei Huang, PhD

Department of hematology

The Sixth Affiliated Hospital of Sun Yat-Sen University, Guangdong gastrointestinal hospital.