To Whom this may concern,

This manuscript was edited by myself, Samuel Seery. I am a British born researcher and scientific editor at the Chinese Academy of Sciences. I was educated in the British public school system until attending postgraduate schools at King's College London and Manchester University. I have been involved in over 80 publications, as a statistician, co-author and as an anonymous scientific editor of reports for high impact international journals, which use English as the language of conveyance.

Should you have any further questions, please don't hesitate to contact me directly.

Your sincerely

Samuel Seery BSc. MPH
