SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

Comments to the author 1.3 The author should consistently include the country in the institution part. "1.7 Abstract Line 10 At ASCO 2020 the results of JAVELIN Bladder 100 phase 3 trial were presented," This part is hard to understand. Please reconsider and revise it. Is "JAVELIN Bladder" a clinical trial name? If so, the author should write a consistently same spell. The author mentioned avelumab as one of the keywords of this editorial. In the abstract and core tip, the author should simply explain the feature of this drug and the relationship of this drug and JAVELIN Bladder trial. The author said "The landscape of urothelial carcinoma treatment has changed significantly in the last years." in the core tip. Would you like to mention "in the last decades"? The author should specifically explain how long has it taken to shift the new landscape from traditional therapy. 2.1 Main Text INTRODUCTION "Urothelial carcinoma is the predominant histologic type, with approximately 90 percent of bladder cancers in the United States and Europe." The author needs to add a reference to this sentence. "In addition, new drugs, such as immune checkpoint inhibitors (ICI) and targeted agents, have emerged as new therapeutic choices in the last years and have changed the therapy landscape of mUC." In this sentence, the "targeted agent" should be written molecular targeted agent." Moreover "in the last years" are vague to explain the transition of the new therapy. References 10 and 11 are the website of FDA approval. As an editorial, the author should use any trials or research abstract to this part. Please reconsider and revise those. Moreover, the author should consistently write the name of drugs small characteristics such as erdafitinib, and enfortumab vedtin. End of the introduction part, the author should explain the purpose of this editorial clearly. "MOST RELEVANT STUDIES PRESENTED AT ASCO 2020 JAVELIN Bladder 100 was one of the most important studies that were presented at ASCO 2020. ---" In this part, the author did not
