

Informed consent statement

Title: “Bull’s eye” appearance of hepatocellular adenomas in patients with glycogen storage disease: atypical MRI findings.

Clinical research on patients with glycogen storage diseases has been approved by the Institutional Review Board. The present case report does not contain any identifying information in written descriptions, photographs, and pedigrees, and MRI images shown in the case report were acquired more than 5 years ago.