Dear Editor-in-Chief of the World Journal of Diabetes

The manuscript titled “The effect of COVID-19 on management of diabetes type 1: pushing the boundaries of telemedical healthcare” was prepared and edited for English language usage, grammar, spelling, punctuation and overall style by the authors of the manuscript who had worked in USA combined for more than 14 years. The authors used their scientific training and every day usage of English language to avoid sentences or passages that would be confusing or vague, and that the manuscript conforms to official English language.
