Re: Non-Native Speakers of English Editing Certificate

Dear Sirs,

All participating authors feel that this Certificate is not needed for our manuscript. I, as the corresponding author, have already co-authored more than 50 original papers published in PubMed and have served as a Research Fellow in the US in the past. In addition, Dr Emmanouilides, who reviewed the article for language accuracy has lived in the US for more than 10 years having thus native English language capabilities. In our opinion, the above mentioned information confirms the correct use of English language in our manuscript making the acquisition of such a certificate redundant.

Sincerely,

Emmanouil Sinakos
