

Answering Reviewers

This is a rare and interesting case reporting. The intraneural cyst of the lumbosacral plexus presenting as a L5 radiculopathy is a rare event. The author have elaborately detailed the case reporting aided with good illustrative figures. This report will provide the readers of considering such entity in the differential diagnosis in a case of radiculopathy with no obvious disc in the MRI images.

Thanks for review of our manuscript and announcement of conditional acceptance.

The reviewer requested the submission of the original figure and revision of the reference for mat.

We revised our manuscript according to reviewers' suggestion.

Best regard,

Du Hwan Kim