

Answer to the reviewer.

Thank you very much for your valuable comments.

Our article was an invited article for the world journal of clinical pediatrics. The journal asked us to submit a mini review of our latest project, and the topic we were interested in during this period was the study with the questionnaires and the internet use by the parents of pediatric surgery patients. We would like to see what different was in the recent literature about this topic except the observational study we made, that's why you see the literature review. We wanted also to agree with the invitation proposal. We tried to answer to your questions and added some sentences in the document that are marked in red. We added the following paragraph in the section questionnaires. We hope in this paragraph we managed to explain analytically the method we designed the questionnaires; we also wrote in this section the categories of questions- the time the parents can spend to add their answers in the paper with the questionnaires we gave them and the time they have to give these questionnaires back to us.

Questionnaire

The questionnaire was designed by MA and KK (authors) and was anonymous and voluntary. The questionnaire was designed and adjusted according to the characteristics and the needs of people of our region, regarding the difficulties they confront in communicating with a hospital doctor in order to accomplish sufficient and satisfactory medical information. In this region, with many scattered isolated villages, the inhabitants form a multicultural society with different habits. The questionnaires were designed to be simple and apprehensive and easy to complete. There was no need for stratification and the questionnaire consisted of a paper that required approximately 4 to 6 minutes to complete.

We added also some sentences in red that we believed we explain and clarify some things. We tried also to do English polishing (Red).
