This article reviewed young-onset CRC. The abstract, Introduction, and Materials and Methods were appropriate and well written. Epidemiology, Risk factors for young-onset CRC, Clinical presentation, Screening recommendations were appropriate and well written with concrete description. In Evaluation and treatment section, the first, second, third paragraphs were unnecessary. Because these paragraphs are not for young-onset CRC. Regarding Other considerations, the section of Precision Medicine and that of Genetic testing are unnecessary. Referral to genetics counselor and referral to fertility specialists sections are appropriate and well written. Future directions and conclusions are appropriate and well written. The table is easy to understand.
