

Dear Professor:

Thank you very much for your high praise and support for this case report, which provides new ideas and approaches to gallbladder-preserving polypectomy, and your support has made its publication possible.

Your advice on the need for a larger sample size to validate the reproducibility of this approach is equally important. Our hospital has cured 6 patients with this approach since October 2020 and all of them have undergone the procedure without any postoperative complications and were discharged 3 days after the procedure.

I will next summarize and write about the experience gained in these patients, in which I will describe and discuss in detail, demonstrating that Laparoscopic-assisted transumbilical gastroscopy for gallbladder-preserving polypectomy is safe, minimally invasive and reproducible.

Again, thank you for your attention and advice on this case report!

Best regards,

Quan Zheng
