

The project 'Clostridioides difficile Infection in Patients with Liver Cirrhosis in the USA: Population-based Study' by authors Sahra and Abureesh et al. (2021) has been reviewed by Research Department at Northwell Health. It involved a data base study with no or minimal risk patient variable identification and is being exempted by review board for further specification.

Please reach out in case of further comments or questions.

Exemption obtained: January 2021.