

Reviewer comment: Your work is good and focused on an important issue especially during this pandemic. However, you need to enrich your manuscript with related empirical evidence circulated around the problem under consideration in addition to your experimental result. Otherwise, I would like to recommend the article to be published on this specified journal.

Reply: Thank you so much for your valuable comments. We have added available empirical evidence and the changes have been tracked in the revised manuscript. The revised manuscript has been attached to these comments.