SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

Dear Authors, Congratulations for conducting this interesting case report entitled "Unusual course of congenital complete heart block in an adult: a case report" for possible publication in the esteemed journal "World Journal of Clinical Cases". The manuscript describes a case of a 23-year-old woman with CCHB and followed her for 28 years. I have the following comments: 1. The figures are absent in the manuscript file. 2. There is a missed comma just before the word "and" during the enumeration process through the whole manuscript. 3. You can use the abbreviation "bpm" as you used it before. 4. The subheadings in the case presentation are different, some of them you started the title with a capital letter and the rest are small letters, while in others, you used only capital letters for the whole title.

SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

Thank you for your submission. Your manuscript was an interesting read. But this manuscript has no new report, and so far many cases have been reported in connection with congenital complete heart block in an adult. Please see the following comments about how your data could be further clarified:

- It is possible to express the superiority of this work compared to other works.
- In the introduction such a sentence is written: (Congenital complete heart block (CCHB) is a rare disease that involves a normal cardiac structure and occurs approximately one in every 20,000 Live births) Can you mention from which article this sentence is taken?
- The authors mention in the final diagnosis section that: (The possible diagnosis of acquired complete atrioventricular block was carefully ruled out. Thus, the final diagnosis of CCHB was made.) Can you point out what is the criterion for distinguishing these two diseases from each other based on reference?
