SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

The course of diagnosis and treatment of lung-specific infections takes more than half a year, and serious complications may occur, which may threaten the physical and mental health of pilots and even lead to grounding, and is a serious threat to the combat effectiveness of naval aviation corps. In this manuscript, the authors reported interesting cases of tuberculosis and cryptococcal pneumonia. The cases are well described and very interesting. The manuscript is very well written. After a minor editing, it can be accepted for publication.
