

Since the paper contains data from a nationalized, publicly available, de-identified database, the paper is IRB-exempt. Further, no patient consent was required for the same as no intervention was performed during the study.