SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

First of all, I am very pleased to have the opportunity to review your manuscript. Here is my evaluation: The title reflects the main topic of the manuscript. The abstract summarizes the work described in the manuscript well, the keywords reflect the focus of your manuscript and describe the background, current status and significance of your review in a broad and meaningful way. What is missing in your explanations is the exact procedure in the selection of articles for the review. Here you should explain exactly how you proceeded in the selection of literature, what the inclusion and exclusion criteria of the literature reviewed were. The aim of the review is well achieved, even if there are still gaps in the methodology. The contribution of your review is clinically relevant. The manuscript adequately and appropriately links the results found and emphasizes the most important points concisely, clearly and logically. The conclusion is comprehensible overall, but could have been more precise. The tables are sufficient, of good quality and illustrate the content of the work in an appropriate manner. The manuscript cites a wide range of references, some of which are older, including the most recent and authoritative references in an appropriate manner. Your Reviewer
