SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

The authors present a case of incidental finding of a pelvic schwannoma during radiological procedures for ureteric calculus. The schwannoma was removed and the lower limb had the symptoms of injury to the sciatic nerve. the authors have presented good radiographic images of the calculus and the schwannoma. However, it is desirable to have a image during the surgery. Review of literature is also short. the authors must discuss the published cases of sciatic nerve variations in the pelvic region and relate it to the current finding.
