Dear Editors of World Journal of Orthopedics,

I am writing to verify that our original article entitled “Adductor canal block implementation and femoral nerve block deimplementation: a new look at implementation science” has been extensively edited by all native English speakers on our submitting author team.

The manuscript has been verified for proper grammar and spelling of the English language, including the correct use of verb tense, writing mechanics, sentence structure, and manuscript format. Moreover, manuscript integrity in regard to all academic rules, section organization, and figure presentation has been validated.

Thank you for your consideration of the enclosed manuscript.

Sincerely,
