Mayor comments:

The section of Alcoholic Liver Disease, under the paragraph of GENETIC, METABOLIC AND ENVIRONMENTAL FACTORS INVOLVED IN LIVER DISEASE, should be simplified, because some similar and/or the same contents had been reported in Reference 24, which was written by the same group of authors.

b) Minor comments: Obviously, this study is a true representative of Mexican population; therefore, the title is inappropriate.

Answer: We have modified this section on Page 7-8 as suggested, (highlighted text). Title was amended also.

This manuscript regarding the factors influencing the development of cirrhosis is interesting. The authors made an appropriate revision of the literature and the readability and quality of the manuscript is good. I would not suggest any changes to the manuscript itself, only to the title, the only and main issue that arises is that, as the authors mentioned this is centered in Mexican population that has very specific characteristics, therefore this review, although it provides a great overview of the factors involved in the development or progression of cirrhosis, it is more suitable for Mexican practitioners. Authors should add -In Mexico- or _In Mexican population- to clearly delineate this review

Answer. In the title, the clause –in Mexico- was added as suggested by the reviewers.

3. Language polishing.

We attached the certificate of English language

4. References and typesetting were corrected

We have revised references and typesetting.

Thank you again for publishing our manuscript in the World Journal of Gastroenterology.

Best regards,
