To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that the manuscript entitled “Novel biomarkers of fibrosis in Crohn’s disease” was edited by native-English-speaking scientists working for English Science Editing. I personally guarantee that the quality of English in the manuscript (with the exception of the References section, which we did not edit) is indistinguishable from that expected of an expert native English speaker.

This certification applies to the version of the manuscript that I returned to Dr. Gianluca Pellino on June 23, 2016, and does not apply to any subsequent changes that may have been made to the document prior to its submission for publication.

Please contact me if you have any concerns about the use of English in the manuscript.

Yours faithfully,

P.J. Kolston, PhD
