

Based on the determination that this study did not meet the Department of Health and Human Services definition of human subject research, this study was considered exempt by the Stanford University Institutional Review Board.