SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

To the authors, This is a well-written manuscript and the topic seems relevant. Given that the authors make a good revision of the available literature and this manuscript could be used as a guide for this topic I suggest to add Tables and figures. A table summarizing the different antidiabetic agents and its effects would be of great use for

SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

The authors summarized the progress of diabetes management in patients with chronic liver disease. This is helpful for clinicians in managing patients with diabetes and chronic liver disease. However, there are some issues that need to be further addressed.

1. Some previous reviews also summarized the management of antidiabetic agents in

SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

The paper presents the use of antidiabetic agents in hepatic impairment. The problem is important and interesting. However, this paper brings nothing new to the existing knowledge. It contains only common well known information. The paragraph concerning Child-Pugh classification is confusing. The text presented here repeats basic
