

Written informed consent was obtained from all eligible patients who were recommended to opt for either of treatments.