To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that the manuscript entitled “The possible role of intestinal stem cells in the pathophysiology of irritable bowel syndrome.” was edited by native-English-speaking scientists working for English Science Editing. I personally guarantee that the quality of English in the parts of the manuscript that we edited is indistinguishable from that expected of an expert native English speaker.

This certification applies only to the version of the manuscript that I returned to Professor Magdy El-Salhy on November 18, 2019 once the additional changes/clarifications we have recommended have been made. This certification does not apply to the figures or the References section, since those parts of the manuscript were not included in our editing, nor does it apply to any subsequent changes that may have been made to the manuscript prior to its submission for publication.

Please contact me if you have any concerns about the use of English in the manuscript.

Yours faithfully,

P.J. Kolston, PhD
