HHV-8 positive iatrogenic Kaposi's sarcoma in the setting of refractory ulcerative colitis

Erica Duh, Sean Fine

Abstract

Although Kaposi Sarcoma (KS) has been more traditionally considered an AIDS-defining illness, it may also be seen in individuals on immunosuppressive therapy. We report a case of a patient who presented to the hospital in the setting of increasingly refractory ulcerative colitis. CT scan of the abdomen was consistent with sigmoid diverticulitis and blood cultures were positive for
