Lymphoepithelioma-Like Carcinoma of the Lung: An Unusual ...

<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC3833058>

We described a case of lymphoepithelioma-like carcinoma (LELC) of the lung of a 65-year-old man with initial symptoms of intermittent chest pain and mild shortness of breath for 2 weeks. A right-lung mass was noted on chest computed tomography (CT) scan and was proved histopathologically as LELC of lung after video-assisted thorascopic lobectomy.
