These factors have a greater influence on fibrosis progression in HCV infection than the virus itself (Poynard et al. 1997). Early studies had reported that HCV infection (as well as infections with the hepatitis B virus) was particularly common among alcoholics, affecting 35 percent of ...

Hepatitis B virus infection and alcohol consumption

<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/28487602>

However, the association between alcohol consumption and chronic hepatitis B in the progression of liver disease is less well understood than with chronic hepatitis C. The mechanisms underlying the complex interaction between HBV and alcohol are not fully understood, and enhanced viral replication, increased oxidative stress and a weakened immune response could each play an important role in the ...
