Jejunitis and brown bowel syndrome with multifocal carcinogenesis of the small bowel

Martin Raithel, Tilman T Rau, Alexander F Hagel, Heinz Albrecht, Thomas de Rossi, Thomas Kirchner, Eckhart G Hahn

Abstract

This is the first report describing a case where prolonged, severe malabsorption from brown bowel syndrome progressed to multifocally spread small bowel adenocarcinoma. This case involves a female patient who was initially diagnosed with chronic jejunitis associated with primary diffuse lymphangiectasia at the age of 26 years. The course of the disease was clinically, endoscopically, and histologically
