Management of hepatocellular carcinoma in the elderly

Mauro Borzio, Elena Dionigi, Giancarlo Parisi, Ivana Raguzzi, Rodolfo Sacco

Abstract

Mean age of HCC patients has been progressively increasing over the last decades and ageing of these patients is becoming a real challenge in every day clinical practice. Unfortunately, international guidelines on HCC management do not address this problem exhaustively and do not provide any specific recommendation. We carried out a literature search in MEDLINE database for studies reporting on epidemiology, clinical characteristics and treatment outcome of HCC in elderly
