Abstract

Aim: To determine the seroprevalence of Hepatitis B Surface Antigen (HBsAg) among pregnant women attending antenatal clinic in Honiara, Solomon Islands.

Methods: This descriptive cross-sectional study was carried out in seven area health centers in Honiara. From March to June 2015, identification of eligible pregnant women in each site was conducted using systematic random sampling technique. A total of 243 pregnant women who gave written informed consent were enrolled. Standardized tool was used to record demographics, obstetric history and serology results. HBsAg and HBeAg were tested using point-of-care rapid diagnostic test. All HBsAg positive
