Abstract

AIM: To use a survey to characterize and identify potential barriers to the use of Digital Chromoendoscopy (DC) by practicing gastroenterologists.

METHODS: An anonymous, internet-based survey was sent to gastroenterologists in Connecticut who were members of one of three national gastrointestinal organizations. The survey collected demographic information, frequency of DC use, types of procedures that the respondent performs, setting of practice (academic vs community), years out of training, amount of training in DC, desire to have DC training and perceived barriers to DC use. Responses
