Osteonecrosis of both knees in a woman with Crohn's disease

Barbosa M et al. Osteonecrosis of knees in Crohn's disease

Mara Barbosa, José Cotter

Abstract

Osteonecrosis is a very rare complication of Crohn's disease (CD). It is not clear if it is related to corticosteroid therapy or if it occurs as an extraintestinal manifestation of inflammatory bowel disease. We present the case of a patient with CD who presented with osteonecrosis of both knees. A 22 years-old woman was diagnosed with CD in April 2012 (Montreal Classification A2L1 + L4B3p). She
