

In this study, the statistical analyses involved were all carried out through formal software. There is no human intervention in the software calculation process. So our manuscript does not require a biostatistical review certificate.