

The study has been approved by the ethics committee of the Deyang City People's Hospital. A waiver of informed consent was obtained, since the data were analyzed from the electronic medical record and reported without personal identifiers.