

As this study analyzed solely medical records, the need for an informed consent was waived by this human research ethics committee.