

The study was retrospective and the data were anonymous, so the requirement for informed consent was waived.