

Clinicopathological features and surgical outcome of patients with fibrolamellar hepatocellular carcinoma. (Experience with 22 patients over a 15-year period

Informed consent was obtained from all patients to undergo surgery after a careful explanation of the nature of the disease and possible treatment with its complications.

Ehab Elhannan