

Informed consent statement

This retrospective cohort study did not directly involve any patients in the data collection process and the NIS database is de-identified and available for the public. Therefore, Informed consent was not required.