

This is a retrospective study that used anonymous clinical data. According to institutional policies, informed consent was not required from patients in this study and the informed consent was waived by the Ethics Committee.