

Patients were not required to give informed consent to the study because the study used anonymous clinical data that were obtained to evaluate nutrition and adequacy of dialytic treatment to which each patient had agreed.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Dr. Howell". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large initial "D" and "H".