SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

The authors reported the rare case of urinary tract lymphoepithelioma-like carcinoma, mixed type. With its rarity, there is no consensus on standard surgical procedures and adjuvant treatment. Here are some questions for the authors. Could the authors provide more details about the margin status from other literature you mentioned in Table 1. ? If all of them were free margin, what is the benefit of extensive surgery to bladder cuff? Your palliative RT was for the enlarged lymph node, without tissue diagnosis of disease. Could you provide the rationale for this treatment to emphasize your suggestion about adjuvant RT in your guideline? The manuscript was systematically well written, with some language issues needed correction.
