COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

Authors need to reduce the text. Few (3-4) lines on history and development of EUS will be of interest to the readers.

COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

A good paper, but perhaps to long. The price is an importante issue that is not discussed. The learning curve is another point that merits discussion.

COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

The article from China is aimed to review the principles and categories as well as the clinical applications of the new techniques of endoscopic ultrasound. The title is "New Techniques of Endoscopic Ultrasound". 1. Overall, it is O.K. 2. These new techniques of endoscopic ultrasound need equipment and experienced endoscopists. It could not be applied in the community hospitals. 3. Unfortunately, the authors did not show the cost-effectiveness of these new techniques. 4. Finally, the authors should to be recommended the readers to apply this knowledge into routine clinical practice.
