COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

The review manuscript by Seki et al titled "Methods of induced pluripotent stem cells for clinical application" provides an update on methods of generating pluripotent stem cells and limitations in their clinical applications. The manuscript is overall well written and well referenced. The reviewer recommends accepting the manuscript for publication,

COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

In this review, the authors introduced the methods of induced pluripotent stem cells for clinical application. The article covers comprehensively the many aspects of iPSCs for clinical use. To attract more clinical physicians, a short paragraph may be needed to list the real potentials of novel regenerative cell therapies using iPSCs in solving incurable diseases.
