SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

Dear authors, I have a few comments on your manuscript: - Your manuscript is rather general, with no exact numbers from the referenced studies (e.g. number of the patients, P values), it resembles a text in a textbook more than a text in a professional scientific journal - Introduction: No exact scientific data are stated. The text is rather a summary than an introduction of a scientific article. In my opinion, the part Introduction is not necessary, the manuscript can start with the next part (Prevalence and Risk Factors...) - You quote a lot of studies in your manuscript but you did not describe how you selected the referenced literature (which database of articles, which key words you applied, which language of the articles you accepted, based on what you selected the referenced articles etc.) - The topic of your manuscript is interesting and valuable, but it requires more exact scientific data, not only general summaries of the referenced studies The reviewer
