

Dear AJCC Editorial Board:

Thank you for reviewing the manuscript. The following is a response to the review comments :

On the issue of scientific quality, the manuscript has been updated with new information on the current status of treatment and future trends. New treatment options are proposed that have the potential to reduce hospital stays and hospital costs in the future, increasing the readability of the article.

Questions about language quality, AJE has been selected to provide language touch-up services based on your journal's recommendation. I have revised the wording and details of the article. Hope revised manuscript meets the publication requirements (Grade A).

I look forward to your further review. Thank you.
