We appreciate very much your supporting comments regarding the interest of our Editorial. Minor language polishing has been done.

Reviewer 00722122

All minor corrections suggested that needed to be done before its publication have been included in the revised version, with the track function of Word.

1. Keywords are written in alphabetical order.
2. The spelling of 'decrease' is corrected.
3. The percentage of 72% has been changed to 71.4% to be consistent with data reported in the table.
4. The spelling of acute is corrected.
5. In the Tables we have added "AHI: apnea-hypopnea index" in the footnotes.
6. "a", "b", and "c" in Table 2 were statistical additional information regarding each of the regression models. These notes, however, are now deleted.

Reviewer 00722438

We thank the reviewer for the positive comments in relation to the interest of our Editorial. Regarding your consideration of a better explanation of the selection criteria for the reviewed studies, we would like to note that this paper is an Editorial (personal authors' opinions) rather than a Review article in which case extensive details regarding the approach to review previous publications are indispensable, particularly in the case of a systematic review (with meta-analysis). However, we have added these sentences to clarify this point: "Data here presented is based on a selective review of the literature of the most relevant publications that according to the author's criteria are of the interest of the readers. This information is presented together with data related to the experience of our group in the management of stroke patients with SDB."
