Title: Metastatic low-grade endometrial stromal sarcoma with sex cord and smooth muscle differentiation: A case report and literature review

Dear Professor Ji,

Thank you and the reviewers for their careful reading of our manuscript (42843). According to the reviewers' comments, we have revised all through the manuscript highlight with red in the manuscript. Our specific responses to the major criticisms from the reviewer are the following:

Comment 1. Minor amendments are needed in phrasing and spelling such as LG-ESS instead of LG-EES.

Response: Thanks for the reviewer's advice, We have used LG-ESS instead of LG-EES.*

Comment 2. On the top of it rephrasing of the abstract by a native speaker is advised.

Response: Thanks for the reviewer's advice, we have make a language improvement of the abstract by a native speaker.*

Comment 3. In discussion, immunohistochemistry application should be highlighted in such cases in order to abolish misleading diagnosis and subsequent clinical decisions in favor of the patient.

Response: Thanks for the reviewer's advice, to highlight the importance of immunohistochemistry application, we have added the sentence in discussion section.*

Comment 4. Furthermore, other cases of LG-ESS with sex cord and smooth muscle differentiation reported in the literature should be presented and reviewed, mainly in terms of malignant potential.

Response: According to the reviewer's advice, we have added the comments about the related* literaturein the text.

Comment 5. The clinical case history is complete and well described. The characterization of the tumour is well done. The english language should be improved.

Response: Thanks for the reviewer's advice, we have make a language improvement in AJE website and supplied the cetificate in the system.
