

Dear reviewers:

It is good article which is suitable for the Artificial Intelligence in Gastrointestinal Endoscopy, however it requires lot of language polishing and corrections. I would request authors to implore in taking assistance in the preparation of this article, thank them for making all efforts for scripting this manuscript. Just to give an example; In this review, we thoroughly described the application and progress of CNN in detecting and classifying GC This should be; in this review we scrupulously elucidated the application and evolution of CNN in the detection and classification of gastric cancer

Thank you for your comments on our manuscript. We thought over your comments seriously and have sent our manuscript to professional English language editing company to polish. Thank you for your attention again.

Yours sincerely
Xin-Yi Feng